Interpretation. In 2002, 63% of voters believed that we should reduce the gap between the rich and the poor (vs 37% thinking the opposite); in 2017, this proportion was equal to 52% (vs 48% thinking the opposite). Note. The exact phrasing of the question is somewhat different in 2002 and in 2007-2012-2017 (see text). Sources and series: see piketty.pse.ens.fr/ideology.
